

Announcement to 2L Students
The Wyss Scholars Program for the Conservation of the American West

Lewis & Clark Law School
Environmental, Natural Resources, & Energy Law Program

Lewis & Clark Law School is pleased to announce it has been selected as one of the newest graduate programs to participate in the Wyss Scholars Program. Funded by the Wyss Foundation, a private, charitable foundation dedicated to land conservation in the Intermountain West, the Wyss Scholars Program seeks to identify and support a new generation of leaders focused on western land conservation issues. The selected Lewis & Clark Scholar will receive financial support during their 2L summer, 3L year and post-graduation.

Applications are available to second year law students currently enrolled at and planning to graduate from Lewis & Clark Law School and who are committed to careers as conservationists of western land with a federal, state or tribal land management agency or a non-profit conservation group working in the defined region (see below). One Wyss Scholar will be selected from Lewis & Clark Law School on the basis of their leadership potential and academic strength and their commitment to furthering land conservation in the Intermountain West.

Application Eligibility:

Applicants must be matriculated J.D. degree candidates in their second year at Lewis & Clark Law School with United States citizenship or permanent residency status. Applicants must demonstrate an interest in a summer job following their 2L year and a post-graduate position with a federal or state land management agency or a non-profit conservation group with focus on the Intermountain West defined as Arizona, California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

The selection committee will also consider relevant current and planned coursework and past and planned experiences in land conservation.

Top grades are a requirement. Eligible candidates must not have any grade lower than a B-. Financial need will also be considered.
