

Professionalism at the Movies

Morning Session:

Ethical Train Wrecks and Other Avoidable Disasters

Practical Steps to Heading
Off Professional Misconduct
Before It Happens

3.25 Ethics MCLE Credits

8:30-11:55 a.m.

Using clips from the legal thriller Changing Lanes, participants will have a powerful and entertaining forum to discuss some of the ethical and professional dilemmas faced by lawyers, and the corresponding toll they can take on an attorney's mental health and psychological well being. The goal of this interactive program is not merely to examine the intersection of ethics and mental health, but to offer participants the opportunity to dialogue and collaborate on practical ways to avoid the kinds of professional and personal problems and pitfalls that can literally ruin a career.

Afternoon Session:

Don't Let the Jokers Drive You Batty!

What We Can Learn from Batman about Maintaining
Our Sanity (and Ethics)
in the Practice of Law

3.25 Ethics MCLE Credits

1:10-4:35 p.m.

Anyone who has been embroiled with a particularly difficult attorney, colleague, client, or judge who "just gets under their skin" knows that such encounters can be absolutely maddening. Unfortunately, when such interactions cannot be avoided, they may also render an attorney more susceptible to compromising his or her own ethical values in the process.

Featuring clips from Batman Begins and The Dark Knight, this seminar explores the impact of these exceptionally challenging professional relationships. Participants are equipped to identify the "Jokers" they have encountered, appreciate the risks of engaging with them, and implement practical strategies to minimize the negative impact on their quality of practice and life.

REELTIME CLE®

Chris Osborn, J.D., Assistant Professor at the Charlotte School of Law, and Michael Kahn, J.D. and M. Ed., Licensed Professional Counselor, began providing their unique brand of CLE seminars on ethics, professional responsibility, and mental health/substance abuse awareness in February 2007. After receiving overwhelmingly positive feedback and outstanding reviews, they soon formed ReelTime CLE and began presenting workshops independently.

ReelTime CLE seminars have been enjoyed by hundreds of participants in North and South Carolina, Georgia, New Mexico, New York City, Ohio, Oregon, and Virginia, as well as in Canada.
